AKSU CHAPTER

INTRODUCTION

About NACOS

The Nigeria Association of Computing Students (NACOS) is the umbrella body for students of computing and IT-related courses in Nigeria. It has existed for over two decades and has a presence in almost all tertiary institutions including private ones. Disciplines represented are Computer Science, Computer Engineering, Information Systems, Cyber Security, Software Engineering, Telecommunications Engineering and IT-related courses.

Event Background

NACOS Week 2027 is themed CONFLUENCE: bridging the gap between technology and other industries. It is not only for technology companies. It is where technology meets banking, energy, health, agriculture, education and more. The programme brings students and industry professionals together through five activities: Hackathon, Trade Fair, Football Tournament, Dinner Night and Pageantry, projected to hold in February, 2027.

CONFLUENCE

Where Technology Meets Industry. Where Ideas Become Impact.

Technology is no longer confined to the technology sector. It powers financial transactions, transforms healthcare delivery, drives energy systems and strengthens the operations of the oil and gas industry.
Yet, the people developing these solutions and the industries that need them do not always have enough opportunities to collaborate.

NACOS Week 2027: Confluence bridges that gap.
By bringing students, technology innovators, industry professionals and corporate organisations into one shared experience, Confluence creates a platform for knowledge exchange, talent discovery, practical innovation and meaningful partnerships. We are merging Technology with other sectors:

- Energy
- Finance
- Oil & Gas
- Medicine.

The Future Is Built Through Collaboration.

Event Objectives

01. Create Collaboration Opportunities

Bring students, academics and companies into the same rooms and projects.

02. Foster Innovation and Creativity

Give teams a real problem, a deadline and a stage to present solutions.

03. Share Knowledge and Experiences

Connect students with experienced personnels and Organizations in fields of their choosing.

#6 In-Kind Partners

Products or services instead of cash. Easier to agree to, and it cuts what we spend.

How It Works

- Valued at the real market price, backed by a quote. If a printer prints flyers we were quoted ₦250,000 for, that counts as ₦250,000
- Earns the matching package. ₦200,000 of value earns Bronze benefits, ₦500,000 earns Silver, and so on
- Only what is on our budget. If it does not replace a cost we would otherwise pay, it is not sponsorship
- Mixed deals are allowed. For example, ₦250,000 cash plus ₦250,000 in products reaches Silver

PARTNERSHIP TIERS

#6 In-Kind Partners

In-kind means a business gives products or services instead of cash. This is often easier for businesses to agree to, and it reduces what we need to spend.

- Extra title for in-kind partners: They are credited as "Official [Service] Partner," for example "Official Print Partner" or "Official Media Partner." This advertises exactly what they do to every student who attends.
- Important limit: Naming rights to an event (for example "Hackathon powered by [Brand]") are for cash sponsors only. This protects our most valuable offer for the sponsors who pay the most.

What We Need	Who Could Provide It
Printing (flyers, banners, roll-ups, booklets, certificates)	Print shops, branding agencies
Food and drinks	Restaurants, caterers, water and drinks brands
Internet and data for the Hackathon	Telcos, internet providers
Power	Generator hire firms, solar and inverter companies
Sound, lighting and stage	Event equipment rental firms, DJs
Jerseys, shirts and sashes	Sportswear stores, fashion brands, tailors
Hackathon prizes	Gadget stores, laptop and phone retailers, software companies
Makeup and styling	Beauty brands, salons, makeup artists
Dinner venue and decoration	Hotels, event centres, decorators
Transport	Bus hire and logistics companies

PARTNERSHIP TIERS

#6 In-Kind Partners

In-kind means a business gives products or services instead of cash. This is often easier for businesses to agree to, and it reduces what we need to spend.

Safeguards

- A written agreement for every in-kind deal, stating what will be delivered, how much, the quality expected and the delivery date.
- Delivery deadlines set well before the event, with a backup plan for important items like food, sound and power.
- No inflated values. If a vendor claims ₦1,000,000 for something our quotes put at ₦400,000, we credit ₦400,000.
- We check quality before accepting. Poor-quality items with our name on them damage our reputation.

Terms and Safeguards for All Sponsors

* Sponsors who confirm early get more publicity before the event.

* Category exclusivity at the top tiers: one bank, one telco, one fintech, one medical, one energy company.

* Payments go only to the NACOS AKSU student body account, never a personal account. Account details are shared on confirmation.
